GREAT GERMAN VICTORY BELIEVED PREMATURE

According to Official Statement From Petrograd Germans Have Been Repulsed in Attempt to Cross the Right Bank of Vistula River in Poland and Fighting in Bzura River District Developing—With the Germans Strongly Entrenched the Allies' Offensive Movement in Belgium and France is Making Slow Progress.

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Dec. 19.—It is believed Her Majesty's government in London is celebrating a great German victory in Poland possibly was premature. All that German headquarters says of the battle there in today's report is that the pursuit of the enemy continues.

The Russian official report tonight says engagements on the left bank of the Vistula have been nothing more than outpost affairs. In these the Russians would seem to have been engaged in holding the Germans, while the Russian main force was forming along the Bzura river, where a battle is beginning to develop, and the German attack is said to have been repulsed.

As was expected the Germans attempted to cross the Vistula in an endeavor to outflank the Russians, but this was frustrated by the Russian artillery and by the seizure of the pontoon bridges.

Despite the desperate work facing them in North Poland, the Russians continue operations in East Prussia and against Cracow, while in western Galicia they are taking positions along the Donauetz river in an attempt to stop the advance of the Austro-German forces.

Part of the Przemyśl garrison had made a sortie in force in an attempt to open the railway to the southwest, and is giving battle to the Russian besieging army.

With the Germans strongly entrenched and the ground in bad condition, the Allies' offensive movement in Belgium and France is making slow progress at several points, however, the French official records the capture of German trenches. The offensive is being pushed with considerable force in Flanders and from the Belgian border south to the River Oise, where the line turns eastward.

The Germans keep up violent counter attacks, and by these and the use of mines, in some cases have prevented the Allies from following up their advantage.

Similar tactics are being adopted by both sides along the rest of the front with gains and losses in fractions of miles. The Allies have brought up an enormous weight of artillery which they are using to clear the way for the infantry.

A message from Antwerp to the Amsterdam Telegraph asserts that the Germans, preparing for a possible retreat, are constructing a line of defense across Belgium from the Scheldt along the Dendre River to Maubeuge on the French frontier.

This, if true, might be considered only a measure of precaution.

The German cruisers which raided the east coast of England sowed a large mine field. In addition to the three steamers previously reported as having been destroyed, a mine sweeper, clearing the seas, was blown up today, and it is reported two other vessels met a like fate.

This occurred while the funerals of the victims of the bombardment at Scarborough and the Hartlepool were being held.

While the motor section of the South African defense force is gathering in the remainder of the scattered rebels, the main army is forming on the German South African frontier where the advance guards are in touch.

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning a corps of patrolmen surprised and arrested seven well-known young white men of the city on charges of gambling. Six of the crowd were carried to the police station, where each gave bond in the sum of $25 for his appearance in recorder's court Monday at noon. The seventh party placed under arrest made his escape, it is said, by a ruse which he worked on Patrolman Marcus M. Payne.

Stood Officer Off. According to the patrolman, this party objected to being marched up the street to the police station and requested that he be allowed to give cash bond on the spot. Having known the young man since childhood days, the officer said, he assented to his request and repaired to the Blue Ridge Railroad bridge on Peoples street, where the two paused for the bond to be given over. Instead of the party under arrest handing over the cash, the patrolman states, he drew a pistol and thrust it into the officer's face, daring him to move a muscle.

The party then backed off, keeping the officer covered with the pistol in the meanwhile, until he had reached a distance where he could turn and flee.

When the party turned, the patrolman states, he drew his own pistol and fired five shots at the fleeing form. The officer was not certain whether any of the bullets took effect in the man's body. The firing of the shots was heard distinctly up town and aroused considerable interest.

Arresting Officers. The corps of policemen making the arrest consisted of Privates Discoli, Ciamp, Sanders, Payne, Stewart, Whitten, Foster and Freeman. The officers had suspected that gambling was going on in a building on West Earle street, near by the Palmetto Rifles as an armory. Early this morning the officers took a ladder from the fire department headquarters and carried it to the building, for the purpose of mounting to the windows and obtaining evidence as to what they believed was going on inside. This particular ladder did not meet the requirements of the occasion, so the officers secured another from a nearby place and ascended to the window.

Here, it is alleged, they obtained a view of the young men "shooting craps." The raid on the hall followed immediately, with the results already noted.

Boys Called to Join the German Army.

The German Government has just called out the class of 1915 to join in the war. They were required to report to the army headquarters Dec. 15. How many of these is not known, for information of that kind is no longer given out in Germany. But boys in the south of Germany—the despatch making the announcement comes from Rome by way of Italy—were notified. This photograph shows the youth of some of those who must prepare to fight. While the class is supposed to be made up of those twenty years of age, the picture indicates that some of them are considerably younger.

EXCHANGE CHALLENGES TO PERSONAL COMBAT

Bitter Debate Ends in Near-Fight on Floor of The House—Statement of Representative Moon That Railroad Influence Had Operated to Shift Democratic Votes Denounced by Congressman Hefflin as False and Untrue—Representative Ragsdale, of South Carolina, Also Repudiates Charge.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—After two days of hot words which culminated today in exchange of invitations to personal combat between Representatives Hefflin, of Alabama, and Moon, of Tennessee, the house adopted a special rule to consider legislation for reforms demanded by the postoffice department in connection with the annual postal appropriation bill.

A defection of Democrats from the leaders yesterday defeated a similar rule, which provided for consideration of amendments decreasing postmaster's salaries, elimination of assistant postmasters, experimental substitution of contract service for the rural delivery service, increased salaries for rural carriers, changes in the compensation paid railroads for carrying the mails and other reorganization plans of the department.

The rule was passed late today with the provisions for cutting postmaster's salaries, abolishing assistant postmasters and the rural service substitution scheme eliminated.

A speech by Representative Moon after defeat of the original rule, in which he intimated that some "railroad influence" had operated to shift Democratic votes, caused a bitter debate today. Representative Hefflin denounced Mr. Moon's statement as "false and untrue." Mr. Moon challenged him to make the same comment off the floor of the house and Mr. Hefflin expressed his willingness to do so. The two representatives were advancing threateningly toward each other when half a dozen members stepped in between them.

"I denounce the statement of the gentleman as absolutely untrue," declared Representative Hefflin, referring to Mr. Moon's statement that Democrats who voted against the rule had "betrayed the Democratic president, the Democratic postmaster general, the Democratic rules committee, and the Democratic postoffice committee."

"You don't dare say that to me except on this floor," shouted Mr. Moon, striding toward the Alabama representative.

"I am willing to say anything outside that I would say to you here," retorted Hefflin, and he started to meet Chairman Moon.

Representative Clark, of Florida; Tribble, of Georgia; Stanley, of Kentucky, and McKellar, of Tennessee, stepped between them and order soon was restored.

Representative Moon said he had no apologies to make for his speech criticizing Democrats who opposed the rule. He said he did not charge corruption against anyone.

"But the circumstances of that vote," he said, "left the impression that there was some influence at work that prevented the adoption of this rule, requested by the administration. Was it the influence of postmasters, or of rural carriers, or of the railroads?"

Representative Hefflin declared no railroad "had influenced him," and declared Representative Moon's criticism "false and untrue."
